Kenney for a copy of this volume which contains over 600 pages, all filled with valuable information in regard to the city. The book is handsomely and finely bound, and contains fine steel engravings of Mayor Alvord and the 12 Supervisors of that city. It contains also reports of the various city officers, showing the taxable property of the city, arrests by the police from July 1872, to June 1873, inclusive, the amount of property lost or stolen and the amount recovered, mortality reports and a great variety of other matter. The work is very valuable for reference from time to time.

Ladies' Festival, — Last night Brown's Hall was well filled on the occasion of the Festival for the Benefit of Roy. H. B.

the Festival for the Benefit of Rev. H. B. Macbride, who will shortly leave us first for a brief visit to the West, and then for for a brief visit to the West, and then for the East. It was a testimonial which not only did infinite honor to the rever-end gentleman, but reflected the greatest credit on the ladies who contributed to it. Throughout it was a pleasurable af-fair. Had it not been for proof positive to the contrary, it would not have taken much to convince us that a branch of the festival was at the Exconp office. Feel-ing as we do now, we shall never eat any more. Our board bill will be light in future.

120 D PROPOSED CONCERT. -Some gentlemen are still interesting themselves in regard to the case of Barney Bradley, and expect to perfect arrangements for a bene-fit concert in his behalf during the week. In this connection we are authorized to say that Hanley's Hall can be obtained for this benefit, or for any other chari-table object, free of charge.

WEATHER. -Sunday was undoubtedly the coldest day of the season, with scarcely any thaw whatever. Yesterday was considerably warmer, and the snow melt-ed to some extent. We expect a grad-al melting of the snow from this time

DEATH OF MRS. GEN. PAGE. - Died in Oakland, Cal., Dec., 27, Lotta M., wife of General A. L. Page, aged 31 years, 2 months and 12 days. General Page was a pioneer resident of Pioche and a high-py respected citizen. His many friends here condole with him in his great loss.

FROME.-Owing to the excessive cold on Sunday night, some of the hydrants were found to be frozen, and consequently useless in case of fire. The matter was being attended to yesterday after-bullion yesterday by Wells, Fargo & Co., was $11,733. What is that which no one wishes to have and no one wishes to lose? A bald head.

A QUIET SUNDAY.—The day passed without any event occurring to disturb the public peace—a fact which we are gled to note, as showing an improved condition of things in this vicinity.

LOOK OUT FOR SELTPERS .- Notwith-Gotno Annoah ron Naws. - To get Going Abnoad for Naws.—To get news of American matters we sometimes have to consult European journals. A late number of the Independence Belge contains a narrative that we have not yet seen in any American paper. A corpse, according to that authority, was lately found on the banks of a tributary of Gold Creek, Cal., with a pickaxe, a bag of gold, and an unfinished manuscript by its side. The document set forth that the writer of it, whose name was Craik-ton, had come out on an explering expecanding the printed notices of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, which are conspicuously posted in all the cars, the "strap game" and other shameless and unscrupulous tricks of sharpers are played upon the unwary, who are robbed without remorse and without mercy. The railroad officials are powerless to prohibit its side. The document set forth that the writer of it, whose name was Craikson, had come out on an explering expedition, accompanied by a couple of Chinese Coolies. Entering a grotto for shelter, they found a seam of gold running along it of a thickness of two yards and for about a raile in length. The coolies, anxious to keep the secret to themselves, went for the writer of the document, who killed them both. Feeling fatigued after this he sat down to write an account of the transaction, but just as he got to the point of directing explorers how to find the grotto of gold, death gripped him, and the MMS. remained a fragment. This is very sad. Had Craikson visited the grotto alone, he might have returned to civilization with a mile of gold two yards thick in his wallet; but he would go in for "Chinese cheap labor," and the result is that the resumption of specie payment is as far off as ever. the shameless robbery of victims, and can do no more than to warn them of the class who austain a miserable existence by preying upon society. The sharpers generally operate at points where the cars stop while passengers take their meals. At these points they get aboard the care, paying their fare as other passengers do, and while going from one meal station to another manage to "spot" their man. They rake up an acquaintance with him, become familiar, and perhaps volunteer some information upon which the simpleton places value. Having got into his good graces, on arriving at a station where the cars stop for a meal, the active duties of the raid upon the victim's purse begins; he is asked to drink, and is then roped into the "strap game," or some other swindling operation, and is fleeced of every dollar he possesses, besides anything he may have which is convertible into coin. As Mr. Holland came up from Sacramento last a case fell under his observation which presents phases of permitting the strap of the second strap of the second generally operate at points where the cars Sacramento last a case fell under his observation which presents phases of peculiar hardship. On the train was a man who was conveying East the remains of his deceased wife, and this poor fellow was drawn into the trap set by the sharpers, and was beaten out of a silver watch and $15 in money. He was deeply chagrined when he realized how badly he had been deceived, and appealed to the passengers for aid. The latter raised him a small sum of money, and he proceeded on his road, a wiser if not a better man, while those who had robbed him only sighed for other victims to fleece.
